Why Northwestern?

I chose Northwestern because I was looking for a place that felt both challenging and supportive, a space where I could grow, but also breathe. I loved that the campus was right by Lake Michigan. I also wanted a university that offered a wide range of majors since I wasn't completely sure what I wanted to pursue yet. I also appreciated that the professors, advisors, and counselors genuinely care about their students' success, both academically and as people.

Favorite Spot on Campus:

Walking along the lakefill path! I also love seeing the Rock.

Why did you become a counselor?

Bridge has had a huge impact on my transition to college and has shaped my experience at Northwestern. From helping me adjust to the academic pace to giving me a close-knit support system, Bridge helped me feel like I truly belonged. The small group sessions offered a space for conversations and guidance from my mentor, whose advice I still carry with me today. Now, I want to be that source of encouragement and connection for others as they navigate this new chapter.
